

Reading Round up!

West View Reading News
Spring 1 Edition
Friday 13th January

What's new?

It has been another busy reading filled week at West View! Our youngest children in nursery have started some foundations to phonics work linked to oral blending and sharing stories. They have had lots of fun! Also, our Year 3 children were very excited to find out who took home the new 'knowledge box' for reading for the first time. Who will get it this week? Finally, keep a look out for some exciting author events which some children in Key Stage 2 will be taking part in this month.

BoomReader Snapshots

Another well done to all the children who read at home over Christmas. This week we have continued to see an improvement in the number of children reading at home. Let's see if we can continue this again next week.

Aaren was able to read some words on sight. He needed reminding about the 'th' sound but once supported he remembered it for the next time- Reception.

Jacobe was so eager to read his book tonight, he seems very interested in it. He read amazingly and with a good pace- Year 3.

Did you know?

Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland introduced new words into the English language, including chortle and jabberwocky, according to the Oxford Dictionaries.
